

Early Learning

When eager young learners are set up to succeed, their achievements extend beyond the classroom and into adulthood.

Healthy child development lays a solid foundation for future success. A student who struggles with reading by the start of fourth grade is four times more likely to drop out of high school. And six times more likely if that student's family also struggles with poverty.

United Way and its partners are committed to supporting child development, school readiness, literacy, tutoring, and parent/caregiver programs for families.

Here's a glance at how:

PHLCONNECTED

This multi-year collaborative effort ensures Philadelphia students K-12 have reliable access to devices and reliable internet to succeed in digital learning environments.

FAMILY EMPOWERMENT

Using a two-generation approach, families with children 18 years old and younger have access to resources to establish and maintain income, housing, and education.

United Way of Greater Philadelphia and Southern New Jersey leads the region's largest, most powerful fight to end poverty and expand opportunity for all.

But we can't do it without you.
